

Member Profile | Petros Papadopoulos

Petros Papadopoulos is an Associate Lawyer in the Litigation Department of SCORDIS, PAPAPETROU & Co LLC. He is an Advocate, member of the Cyprus Bar Association. Petros has particular interest and knowledge of international law, European Union law, human rights, and environmental law. He speaks fluently Greek and English, and has a basic command of French.

Before joining our law firm in October 2024, Petros has worked at other reputable law firms in Cyprus and at the General Court of the European Union in Luxembourg.

He regularly advocates before courts in Cyprus in both civil and criminal litigation matters. Petros has experience in commercial, corporate and regulatory law issues, and currently focuses on administrative law, contract law, banking law, and criminal law cases. Notably, Petros also deals with interim orders, freezing orders, and garnishee orders.

Petros frequently writes and publishes articles in national newspapers regarding pressing and current legal issues of wider societal interest. Some of his recent articles focus on the right to freedom of speech, the protection of the right to a clean environment, and commentaries on judgments of the European Court of Human Rights.

Importantly, Petros is a published novelist and adores to write literature and poetry. His creativity allows him to create innovative legal arguments whilst always presenting his views in a coherent and organized manner.

Areas of practice:

- Litigation
- Arbitration

Major Engagements:

- Involved in opining on the non-enforcement of an arbitral award in a foreign jurisdiction due to public policy considerations.
- Involved in a freezing order application in Cyprus.
- Involved in representing a company in a contract litigation dispute regarding inter alia the unlawful unilateral amendment of the terms of a contract.
- Involved in defending a company in an unjust enrichment case.

Academic & Professional Qualifications:

- B. A (Law (Honours)), University of Cambridge, 2020
- Advocate (Cyprus) (2021)
- LL. M in International Law from the Geneva Graduate Institute, (2022)
- M. A (Honours), University of Cambridge, 2024